

Dartmouth Career Support Network 2020

The Class of 2020 is graduating from Dartmouth at one of the most difficult times in the world's history. The impact on their personal and professional lives will be profound. Only a few months ago, their job prospects were bright and “social distancing” was a term that was not part of our common lexicon. Today, many jobs have evaporated, and they need assistance and support. The Dartmouth alumni network is unparalleled, and we hope to leverage the incredible power and bond of Dartmouth alumni and parents to help the '20s – from relationship building and networking to skill development and work opportunities.

The challenge: 50 new short- or long-term work opportunities for Dartmouth '20s by June 12.

There are three ways you can help right now.

- If you or your organization has a job or a short term work opportunity for which Dartmouth '20s could be considered, share it with the Center for Professional Development by posting it on Dartboard: <https://sites.dartmouth.edu/cpd/post-job-or-internship/>.
- If you are willing to share your expertise and connections with the '20s, join our new LinkedIn group expressly for these purposes. By joining, you signal that you're willing to be contacted now by our soon to be newest alumni to support their networking efforts, to share your experience and career path, to build relationships and offer your valuable perspective and advice.
- Spread the word. The more alumni and parents who know of this effort, the more we can support the '20s. Please consider sending this to your constituents and sharing it with your networks.

Thank you for your consideration. The strength and commitment of the Dartmouth community is truly special, and together, we can make a difference for the '20s.
